Global Recycled Standard

Wooly, Margrethe, and Lillehammer are woven from 70% recycled wool sourced from textiles that are color-sorted and recycled without the use of water or chemicals. The material may come from surplus production in the garment industry or other reclaimed wool products. Producing one kilo of virgin wool generates 9 kg of CO2, while recycled wool results in just 0.5 kg per kilo. The result is a positive environmental impact through reduced water and energy consumption and significantly lower carbon emissions.
